Pressed Flowers for Crafts & Botany with Dr. Martin Quigley

Sunday March 25th, 10 am to 1 pm

Join Martin Quigley for a workshop to learn the techniques for drying your plants and foliage and how to mount and maintain them for display in frames, lampshades, cards, or under glass. Using flowers, grasses, and leaves we collect in the Arboretum—or you may bring your own—we will take you through the steps of this simple and rewarding craft. These pressings will last for many years, and can be refreshed if necessary. Class size is limited to 20, so sign up now!

To pay and reserve your space, visit us at https://arboretum.ucsc.edu/news-events/events
Cost $40 for members/ $55 for non-members
+ $15 materials fee includes wooden flower press

Instructor: Dr. Martin Quigley, Director of Arboretum

Martin Quigley is the Executive Director of the UC Santa Cruz Arboretum and Botanic Garden. His first job in greenhouse growing and floristry at age 11 led to a life-long fascination with plants—scientific, horticultural, and aesthetic. He is a Landscape Architect, and has been a professor of Ecology, Botany, Ethnobotany and Horticulture.
