UC Santa Cruz Arboretum and Botanical Garden Presents
Nature-Crafted Inks & Watercolor Paints
January 27th, 10 am to 2 pm

Ink- and paint-making will be merged into one comprehensive workshop on local color palettes. Learn about the origins of color, work with select rock and plant samples, and take a local walk to learn about different species that lend themselves to exquisite color. Each participant will learn hands-on paint grinding techniques and will take home a sample card of local colors and an instructional pamphlet on how to reproduce the process. Class size is limited to 12, so sign up now!

Call to pay and reserve your space.
Cost $45 members/ $60 non-members plus $10 for materials
(831) 502-2998
Office hours: 9am-5pm Monday through Friday

Instructor: Melody Overstreet
Melody Overstreet is a local artist, poet, and educator. She has exhibited her work locally as well as internationally. She teaches Book Arts at Kirby School, and offers nature-craft centered workshops through Cabrillo College Extension, UCSC, and The Santa Cruz Natural History Museum. Her educational approach emphasizes the importance of connection to our origins through place, community, and seeds.
